

Short Bio - Dina Bach
Singer/Songwriter/Pianist
Label: Unsigned

Dina Bach is a Chicago-area BMI recording artist, singer, songwriter, and self-taught pianist blending heartfelt pop and country-pop with warm, expressive vocals and piano-driven storytelling. Her music has been featured on WGN Radio, NPR (WNIJ), Radio One Chicago, and in Chicago Music Magazine's "Local Pulse."

She tours throughout the Midwest and nationally, performing solo and as a vocalist with Journeyman: A Tribute to Eric Clapton, one of the country's premier touring tribute acts. Dina also headlines original listening-room shows at Hey Nonny, where her intimate performances shine.

Dina completed a 98-week songwriting project, releasing one original song per week exclusively to her private fan community. Several of those songs were later professionally recorded for her full-length album.

Beyond the stage, she has volunteered as a translator for Kiva and was commissioned to write a custom song for A Boy and His Dream Foundation, supporting mentorship and education initiatives in Chicago and Nigeria.

Brief Blurp:

With warm vocals, piano-forward melodies, and a storyteller's heart, Dina Bach bridges Midwest roots and Nashville influence. Whether touring nationally, headlining listening rooms, or performing at high-profile private events, she delivers music that feels both radio-ready and deeply personal.
